“ Rusty, Why have you left us so early? Have you been selected for a higher propose? Have you gone to be with your Dad? I believe we all have a time we must go on the clock of life and it was your time. A time way too soon for all of us. I wish we could go back in time, back to our high school days. the time that having you as my best friend and always felt like one of the family was the best part of those times. I want to get hugs from your Mom and get into trouble from your Dad like we always seemed to do. I want to give your brothers wedgies and make sure your little sister didn't fall of the porch, the time when i came home on my first leave from the Marine Corps to see my second family. I have and always think of you often. We missed so many years from then to now and now you are gone. Tears fill my eyes and sadness fills my heart. May god bless you and your family and hold all of you in his hands and give them peace. When you see your Dad tell him I only shot half the holes in the roof of the barn. You shot the other half. Rest in peace brother.
