“ I don't know if anybody else rode with him in the car but that man could scare the bejesus out of anybody when he would drive sometimes he would cut in front of people so close at the bumpers almost touched and his favorite thing to say was he would call people shit ass excuse my language but that's what he would say all the time it was so funny he would get so mad at traffic all the time and eventually I had to take over and start driving for him cuz he could no longer Drive we going all kinds of drives he loved driving with me

“ I was never one to really like sitting and watching westerns sitting with him so often during the day I got used to watching them and he got me liking this one show called Laramie I'll never forget that show everytime I see it it reminds me of him how he gets so mad when the commercials would come on Hayward gripe about how the commercials were longer than the show was anymore
