“ Coach Charles Levo invited me into his kitchen and sautéed mushrooms and vegetables while talking about mental strength during a distance running event. He inspired college athletes and I felt honored to listen to his wisdom that helped me become a future Conference Champ at the University level. Pops as I called him was a strategic planner, and even better at executing a master plan. Each conversation with Pops enriched my goals not only as a college athlete, but also as a man. He was like the dad I never had.
