“ To say you were the light in the darkness. Is undermining what you meant to me. There are no words for how much I love you. How much I wanted to help you. But, you were so strong but oh so stubborn. Those who knew you know exactly what I meant to by that statement. If there was a will there was a way to do anything and everything. You gave me so much strength and love over the years that I will forever be grateful. I will never forget your genuine soul. You were the kindest most caring man. You always understood and never passed judgement upon me. You really helped me from a young age to finding my own spiritual relationship with Jesus. I loved listening to you talk. You could talk about anything and everything. But, I always felt oh so loved by you. I will do everything in my power to get to heaven with you. Because I know you welcomed in with open arms. I have zero doubt about that. That alone brings me peace and comfort. Even though that doesn't stop the tears. I find strength because of who you were to me. I love you, eternally and whole heartedly. Forever my Uncle you will be. Just from up above.

I'm devastated over losing you. You just texted me telling me I am the love of your life as you were mine also. God has you in his arms now. I know you have finally found peace and for that I'm grateful. You always have been the love of my life and always will be. Rest in peace my Love, see you on the other side.

Shelly, Jim is my baby boy. When he was born, he was so tiny they didn't even try to weigh him. He spent 2 months in an incubator before I could hold him. Please text me at winniehurst1@gmail.com
