“ I met John when I delivered newspapers in downtown Miami. I was only 13 years old, but they let me sell papers in the Otoe Lounge. John used to give me all the change in his pocket for a dime paper. He also did the lettering on the autographed OU footballs my dad got from my uncles Steve and Tinker. John was a very kind soul with a big heart. Even after I grew up, he always recognized me and remembered me as the paper boy. RIP John.

“ It has been several years since I last saw John but will always remember the years he worked for my parents, F. E. & Dorothy Stone when they owned Taylor Sign Service on main street in Miami, Oklahoma. He, alongside my father were responsible for the advertising & signage for a large part of N.E. Oklahoma & predominately Buffalo Ranch in its heyday and some of which I might add, is still present today. John was a talented and gregarious individual with a kind heart and generous soul. He is recognized in numerous roles as a model for beloved Miami native & "storyteller artist" Charles Banks Wilson's murals as well. Throughout the years when my parents each passed away, John was there to bid them farewell. Ironically, 35 years to the day, John passed away Sept. 1 as did his old friend. Rest in peace John, for it has been a pleasure to travel this road with you. Always, Debbie Stone Paul.
