“ when I found this today I have to say a huge thank you to all who found a way that gives everyone a way to share some of our stories that made Nancy so special to so many of us those close to her no matter how many miles we might have been separated by. I had to really take some time today to decide what memories I could share as I have so many that show just why she is so special to all of us weather you share or just remember her. so here goes. Nancy was a co worker when she came into my life and vary quickly she became someone who was so much more than that. She just loved all of us. Chuck and the boys shared her with so many of us and I am so GREATFUL they did. I had surgery just as she began working Days that allowed her to be home with the boys as Chuck worked shiftwork and the boys were young. She worked nights while I was gone so that I could recover and keep my hours when I returned but that is just the beginning. I was engaged to be married in October 1993 and everyone that knows me knows that fate had other things in store for me but, that would not be known for many years yet. Nancy only had the boys then and brought me her wedding dress and gave it to me. If you saw the video here you saw the dress. I really did not think it would fit me but it did. She gave it to me as she did not have a daughter then who new how many girls she would have in her life now. the wedding didn't happen and I returned her dress so it would stay in the family. She never asked for it and told me I could safe it as she gave it to me just because she wanted me to have it. Then come 2001 I was planning my wedding to my husband who has filled my life with so much love and when I had the date set only 10 months from our 1st date, I made a call and anyone who knows the story knows this is where fate intended me to be. Not much notice for her to plan a trip. Chuck was sharing her again. Not only was she at my wedding but when Pop wanted a Vale just 48 hours before the wedding I went to Nancy and handed her a vale and asked her to help as there was no time and no plan and of course she delivered with time to spare as she always did no questions asked. This is the story that shows just how big her heart was and just the person she was and how she made all of us feel special every day!!!
