“ The first time I saw my sister Shanna, we were both in our twenties. She was a bit shocked to see a long-lost big sister at her door. But we started a correspondence that lasted until she went home to Jesus. I went to see her in OK when I could. I met her mom, and they generously shared pictures and memories of our dad. She had a beautiful laugh and a welcoming heart. I'm going to miss my little sister, but I know she's having a reunion with our brothers and parents. We are Cherokee, Sis, so I'll stand in as mom to your kids when they need me. Love you.
