He went on to serve in the United States Navy aboard the USS Gridley until 1981. He worked in Walmart Stores managing automotive departments for a time before starting his lifelong career at the US Post Office. He carried mail for many years and is well known in Miami. numerous to mention.

Steve loved being outside working around his house. He loved to hunt and fish. He especially loved to turkey hunt. He enjoyed participating in fishing tournaments. Steve liked planting a garden and at different times had so many cucumbers and cantaloupes that he had a hard time finding people to gift them all to. He was always willing to help his friends fix things. He found friends everywhere he went. Steve had quite a following of medical staff at KU; he was very loved.

“ My late husband and I first met Steve when he became employed by the P.O. in Miami. He and Tom became friends and worked together for many years. Tom once told me that the reason he didn’t retire sooner was because of how much he liked working for Steve. After Tom became sick and needed help with his retirement, we could always count on Steve to help in any way he could. He was a good man.
